First Race-Good Ship, Jockey Bevan, 3 to 1, won: Eel, Kirshbaum, 5 to 5, second; Mary Genevieve, Stille, 20 to 1, third. Time, 36 seconds.

The Ogden Jockey Club's spring meeting of fifteen days began auspiclously at the local Fair grounds to-As early as 2 o'clock there were more than a thousand visitors on the grounds and many more were present when the bugle blew for the first race, which is a very good record for a mid-week day, more or less discom-forting climatically. A stiff wind and resultant dusty atmospheric conditions prevailed during the afternoon. At 2:15 the special train from Salt Lake, over the Bamberger road, arrived with 200 race horse people on

A. J. Blum officiated as presiding judge, J. H. Maynard, a well-known newspaper man, acting as assistant judge and W. M. Murray did the start-

The other officials are E. G. Mc-Quad, secretary, and William Little paddock and parole judge. Very few of the original fifty-three entrants were withdrawn. This left a large and evenly balanced field to contest for the six valuable purses. The absentees were Balnade in the third race, Workbox, Woolen and Anna May in the fourth, Runsum in the fifth and Severus in the sixth.

The management has spared no pains to insure for the people of this section a season of high class racing, enlisting the services of horses of established class. How well they have succeeded in their efforts in this direction, is attested by the entry list for today's races Horsemen and old time followers of the racing game all declare that never before in any secof shoes when you can get a Douglas tion of this country, as well filled and as classy a card been seen at a half mile track as has been provided for the entertainment of the citizens of Ogden and vicinity today, and it is not a padded card, either. There is not a single horse named in it that You seldom hear one speak lightly was not entered by his owner in the race in which he is named, and barring unforeseen contingencies, which arise at every track, there is not a good horse named that will not start. list of probable starters.

It is the policy of the management to deal fairly with the public as well as with the horsemen, and they have not made a single claim either as to the number of horses here, their quality of the racing material at hand, the improvements on the plant, the condition of the track, or in any other per-ticular that has not been warranted. Furthermore, they will insist that the horsemen and riders shall deal fairly with the patrons of the meeting, and to that end will demand good clean racing. "A fair field, no favors and let the best horse win," will be the motto of Manager Murray and his capable associates, and it will come as near to being lived up to at this meeting as it ever has been at any

This is a case wherein the parties want to stick the Fair association for the labor as well as the lumber lien. The mechanics all testified that they did the work and that Checketts & Bradison owed them the balances claimed. All went along smoothly un til Eugene Hart was on the witness stand. He testified that he had never presented his claim to the Fair asso ciation and filed his lien for $104 with out making any claim on the Fair of ficers. He became much confused, contradicted himself repeatedly and finally admitted that he settled with Checketts & Bradtson in full for all by paying cash, and then admitted he had paid no cash, but that Checketts & Bradison had built a house for him and he had never paid anything for the work they had done for him. Judge Horn had this witness so confused that

ELOPEMENT AND A MAD FATHER

ROMANCE AT COURTHOUSE WITH A PLEASING ENDING.

"Old Man" Went in Search of His Daughter and the Man She Married.

A rosy-hued romance, involving an elopement from Laramie, a marriage ceremony at Ogden, an angry and reengeful father, and finally a recon ciliation and a pleasure trip to the capital city, was rounded out nicely at the court house this afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Sangree and J. George Phillips is engaged in the at Laramie, and objected to the marthe opposition, George and Mabel decided to come to Ogden and be married without the consent or knowledge of the girl's parents. In accordance with these plans, Mabel and Mrs. McKay arrived in Ogden last Sunday and were followed to the city Monday by J. O. McKay and G. M. Sangree. Tuesday a marriage certificate was secured and yesterday afternoon the young couple vere married by Rev. Mr. Zimmerman of the Baptist church.

Later in the day a telegram was received by Sheriff Wilson, from the girl's father at Laramie, to the effect that Mabel was not of marriageable age and to hold the young couple until he arrived in Ogden. This was done and this morning the indignant father arrived with blood in his eye and a determination to wreak vengeance on his daughter, her husband and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. McKay who had chaperoned the lovers until they were married. Finally a council of war was held in the sheriff's office, the young people were forgiven, the McKays exonerated and the romance ended by Mabel's father inviting the whole party down to Salt Lake on a pleasure trip at his
